Title: Human and Planetary Health Lecture Series - 11/20/2026

Learning Objectives
After participating in this regularly scheduled series, participants should be able to:

1 Describe the major health impacts of climate change, including heat-related illness, vector-borne disease, respiratory conditions, and the exacerbation of health inequities.

2 Analyze the contribution of the healthcare sector to greenhouse gas emissions and identify opportunities to reduce the environmental footprint of clinical practice and health systems.

3 Apply evidence-based strategies to integrate climate-related considerations into patient counseling, clinical workflows, quality improvement initiatives, and institutional sustainability efforts.

Accreditation
In support of improving patient care, Stanford Medicine is jointly accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME), the Accreditation Council for Pharmacy Education (ACPE), and the American Nurses Credentialing Center (ANCC), to provide continuing education for the healthcare team.
