

Eleni Sheehan has been caring for patients with diabetes in the University of Florida Health endocrinology outpatient clinics for more than five years, in both the pediatric adult endocrinology divisions. She served as research coordinator for the T1D Exchange, the Pediatric Diabetes Consortium, and TEDDY studies. She received her MS in Nursing degree from UF, her BS in Nursing from UF, and holds a Master of Arts degree in communication from the University of South Florida. Eleni left a successful career in marketing and development to pursue her passion: caring for people with diabetes. Diagnosed with type 1 diabetes when she was 9 years old, Eleni brings a uniquely compassionate perspective to patient care. She has served on the JDRF North Florida board of directors, volunteer advisor to the UF College Diabetes Network, and volunteer RN for the Florida Diabetes Camp.
